To announce upcoming training dates for 12th grade Economics teachers regarding financial literacy.

- The Department of Social Sciences has received a grant from Discover Financial Group to infuse the teaching of financial literacy into the existing 12th grade Economics course. This initiative will assist teachers in meeting the new Florida Legislative mandate to infuse financial literacy standards into the teaching of senior high school economics.
  - In cooperation with the Federal Reserve Bank of Miami, Everfi, and the Florida Council on Economic Education, the Department of Social Sciences is offering two-day training sessions during the fall semester 2013. Participants will receive the following during the trainings:
    - Instruction on how to utilize free materials provided by the aforementioned entities;
    - Substitute coverage for the Friday training date and a $100 stipend for the Saturday training date; and
    - 15 Master Plan Points awarded upon successful completion of all workshop requirements.
  - It is highly encouraged that Senior High School Principals require all 12th grade Economics teachers, currently teaching the course during the fall 2013 semester, to register for one of the following two sessions in order to meet this new legislative mandate regarding financial literacy. Additional trainings will be offered for teachers at a later date who are teaching the course in the spring semester.
  - Each two day session will be held at the Federal Reserve Bank of Miami, 9100 NW 36 Street, Miami, Florida 33178 from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on the following dates:
    - Friday, September 20 and Saturday September 21, 2013. To register for this two-day session, please click on the link below:
