Category:

Audience: All Principals/APs, All Teachers

Due Date: n/a

Meeting Date: n/a

To provide teachers with instructional materials for the 2012 Florida Senatorial and United States Presidential Elections.

- A central component of a healthy democracy is the participation of its citizens in the electoral process. Many argue that voting is the most basic responsibility of our citizenship.
 - The Division of Social Sciences has prepared resources designed to support instruction prior to the Presidential and Senate elections to be held on November 6, 2012. The resource materials are designed to inform students on the candidates, issues, and the voting process.
 - Below are the links to the elementary and secondary resources. Please feel free to download and duplicate the resources as necessary.

- In addition, The Division of Social Sciences is sponsoring an online Mock Election for all students in the District. A lesson plan and all support materials needed for the Mock Election are found within the resource materials. Detailed directions will also be provided to all schools through a separate Weekly Briefing.
