- The Department of Social Sciences will provide a one day professional development on the Lead2Feed program, for interested teachers. This professional development opportunity is ideal for teachers interested in implementing an innovative and exciting service-learning program called Lead2Feed.
- Lead2Feed is a free program that combines a ten-lesson, standards-based curriculum on the topic of leadership, with the challenge of solving world hunger via a service-learning project. The leadership principles are based on the book, Taking People with You by David Novak, and focuses on self-awareness, working with others, setting a big goal and identifying a hunger-related charity to assist. More information about the Lead2Feed program can be accessed by clicking on the following website address: <http://lead2feed.com/>.
- Teachers will be trained on how to assist students in developing a solution and launch a plan to help solve hunger issues in their community or around the world. USA TODAY's electronic newspaper will be used as a resource to help students study, find real-life examples of leadership and global/local hunger issues. After students complete their project, they have the opportunity to submit it for a World Hunger Leadership Challenge Award.
- The Lead2Feed workshop will be held as follows:
  - LOCATION: Lawton Chiles Middle School, 8190 NW 197 Street, Miami, Florida 33015
  - DATE: January 25, 2016
  - TIME: 8:30 AM – 3:30 PM
- Teachers will receive 7 Master Plan Points (MPPs) for their attendance and submission of required follow-up assignments.
- Teachers must pre-register for the course through MyLearningPlan by searching for the session titled: Social Sciences: Lead2Feed Training.
