November is Native American Heritage Month. The Division of Social Sciences and Life Skills has developed resources to assist teachers as they provide instruction on the contributions of Native Americans.

- The Division of Social Sciences and Life Skills has developed a teacher resource guide to assist teachers in providing instruction on the contributions of American Indians and Alaska Natives to the growth and development of the Americas and the United States.
 - Elementary and secondary lesson plans with readings, support materials, and website resources are provided in the guide.
 - Also attached is a Power Point presentation that may be utilized to celebrate Native American Heritage Month. The Power Point may be used school-wide during opening exercises or in individual classrooms.
 - Please share the attached resources with the teachers in your school. This information is also available on the website of the Division of Social Sciences and Life Skills at <http://socialsciences.dadeschools.net/>
 - Please contact: Dr. Sherrilyn Scott, District Supervisor, Division of Social Sciences and Life Skills, at the number listed below or via email at sherrilynscott@dadeschools.net.
